

January 8, 2018

Snuggle Up with Your 37 Year old Pillow in PN Barracks!

Over the Christmas break, one of our members trying to rest at Werris Creek Barracks, removed the covers from his pillow. He was rather bewildered with what he found!

For those not old enough to recall, The PTC stands for Public Transport Commission of NSW. This commission ceased to exist in 1980, so at a minimum these type pillows are 37 years old.

The matter has been raised with management through the local Health and Safety Representatives and the RTBU will be closely monitoring the outcome.

In the interim we urge all members to check the bedding at barracks locations and if not up to a reasonable standard, submit a hazard report to your local manager, HSR and the RTBU. If you consider your personal health and safety is being put at risk, you should raise your concern immediately with your manager and ask that the issue be corrected.

Don't let The Bed Bugs Bite!

AUTHORISED: R Hayden Locomotive Divisional Secretary

Level 4, 321 Pitt St Sydney.NSW 2000