

LABOUR HIRE MEMBER UPDATE

LABOUR HIRE UNION MEMBERS SECURE BETTER PAY AND CONDITIONS

Previously casual labour hire workers at a Wollongong coal mine have won permanent, well-paid jobs, after they joined their Union and called management's bluff.

This win shows that the only way to stand up to labour hire bosses, and secure more rights and better pay and conditions is to join your Union.

Unions draw strength from 'spectacular victory' at coal mine

These were un-unionised, casual workers who were being exploited by their employer. They were the lowest-paid labour hire casuals in the region. Through joining their union and flexing their collective muscle, they are now permanent employees on pay and conditions consistent with the area.

"The conversion of permanent, well-paid jobs into poorly paid, insecure jobs is a huge issue right across the country. If labour-hire workers join their union, then we can turn this around."
